

PRESENTING THREE ORIGINAL
INTERPRETATIONS OF A
ONE-OF-A-KIND ADDRESS.

Meet the triumvirate of interior designers creating
Museum Tower's signature homes.

Three of Dallas' most celebrated names in interior design are creating Museum Tower's signature homes, which will beautifully illustrate the range of personal style and creativity that each homeowner can bring to their residence. The chosen three are Emily Summers, Emily Summers Design Associates; Ann Schooler, Schooler, Kellogg & Company; and Marco French, Marco French Studio. Ranging in size from 2,100 square feet to 3,700 square feet, the three signature homes will reflect the vision of its respective designer, incorporating styles that feature contemporary, transitional and traditional treatments.

Ann Schooler

Commencing her career leading groups to England and Virginia to study the great houses of Britain and their influence on American decorative arts, Ann Schooler has spent 22 years designing projects in the U.S. and abroad. She was named one of the Four Under Forty, the four best designers in America under the age of 40, by Southern Accents magazine.

Emily Summers

A nationally recognized designer with numerous awards, Emily Summers is known for her refined interiors and creative eye. Throughout her 30 years in business, her work has been defined by her integration of architecture, art and interior design. In 2007, Summers was named to the AD100, Architectural Digest's directory of the world's top 100 designers and architects.

Marco French

Marco French has been on the cutting edge of interior architectural design for 25 years, possessing an uncompromising attention-to-detail that allows him to develop an individual unique style for each client. He is well known in Dallas for his interior projects, which have included luxury residences in Dallas, New York City and Rockport, Maine.

A 42-story luxury residential high-rise designed by renowned architect Scott Johnson, Museum Tower offers 112 residences located in the heart of the Dallas Arts District. The collection of signature homes is scheduled to open April of this year.

To learn more about Museum Tower and our signature homes, contact Lea Anne Loughlin at (214) 954-1234 or llaughlin@museumtowerdallas.com